One popular type is the tripod mount, which enables users to securely attach their phones to a tripod for stable shots, perfect for long exposure photography or time-lapse videos. These mounts typically come with adjustable angles, allowing for precise framing. Another type is the clamp mount, which can easily attach to various surfaces like desks, shelves, or even the edge of a table. This flexibility makes it ideal for live streaming or video calls, ensuring that the phone remains steady and at the perfect angle. Lastly, handheld mounts provide a more mobile solution, enabling users to capture action shots or travel vlogs with ease. These mounts often feature ergonomic designs for better grip and comfort during extended use.
